Community Accountability: Creating a Knowledge Base

Posted on May 26, 2012 by inciteblog

This is a space to create an online collective knowledge base and resource center for community-based responses to gendered violence. It's a resistance to the prison nation and the global lockdown. A commitment to survivors of violence and to the transformation of violence. A reflection of community practice, insight, and ingenuity. A practical space for tools, contacts, and resources, and a creative space to develop our imagination for doing the critical anti-violence work that we urgently need to do.

Here, you'll find community accountability and transformative justice resources to support people responding to violence. This site is also produced to share the 2012 collection, Community Accountability: Emerging Movements to Transform Violence (https://communityaccountability.wordpress.com/social-justice-journal-issue/), a special issue of Social Justice: A Journal of Crime, Conflict, & World Order (http://www.socialjusticejournal.org/). The articles from this collection are uploaded (https://communityaccountability.wordpress.com/social-justice-journal-issue/) to this website. More about the issue can be found in the Editors' Introduction (https://communityaccountability.wordpress.com/social-justice-journal-issue/editors-introduction/).

We're just getting started, so please let us know if you have feedback in the comments or send us an e-mail at commaccblog@gmail.com.

We look forward to learning with you!
